HELP Trends

Data loss—always be prepared.

Okay, so I'm no Boy Scout, but I know a thing or two about being prepared to protect against data loss when disaster strikes. First off, you've got to lose the attitude "it'll never happen to me." When the dice is rolled, it could happen to anybody. Let's see—computers get viruses, systems crash, vandalism, theft…getting the picture? Gotta say we have as many types of backup devices as there are á la carte items on the menu at your favorite little bistro. We have basic flash drives for "no frills" storage and transport of files, to slim, higher capacity hard drives you can tote between sites, to humongo capacity hard drives and LTO cartridges to archive files long term.

My fave backup system features:

Incremental backup copies only the files you've changed since your last full or incremental backup. Incremental backup is quicker than full backup.

Continuous data protection automatically saves a copy of every change in data that you save. Data can be restored to any point in time. Great for small businesses.

Backup password protection and encryption turns intelligible information into useless information unless you have an authorized password. No password—no data for you. Encryption means me happy; hackers not so happy.

"Talk about an easy, thrifty way to safeguard those sensitive electronics, not to mention gain additional outlets."

E. Six-Outlet Surge Protector MOV surge mechanism is fire-resistant for added protection in the event of an extreme surge. Lighted on/off switch and LED surge and ground indicator lights. Maximum load on all outlets should not exceed 15 amps. Limited $35,000 connected equipment warranty. Manufacturer's limited one-year warranty. UL/cUL Listed. White. Two surge protectors per pack.

HELP Solutions for the Large Enterprise Business

Not A Shred of Evidence!

Lather. Rinse. Repeat. We all know how those three simple steps can help you maintain lustrous, clean and shiny locks. Well, there's a new mantra in town: Stack. Shred. Repeat. That pretty much sums up the steps needed to maintain security in your workplace. I'm talking about paper shredders here—not only are they your first defense against identity theft, they help keep personal, financial and business information confidential and safe from prying eyes. Shredders come in many shapes and sizes, but make sure to check out their features before you buy. It's all in the details, you know. Some can shred credit cards, some can gobble up staples, saving you the hassle of having to remove them first. And, because you might have better things to do than hand-feed sheets, some can stack up to 100 sheets or so and do the job in minutes.

Peace of mind? Piece of genius! In my book, a paper shredder is as essential to your day-to-day operations as indoor plumbing and a decent coffeemaker. We've all heard the horror stories of security gone bad. Don't be a victim. Invest in a large-volume paper shredder and keep proprietary information just that. Nobody needs to know your classified information— or your top-secret corporate plans for world domination. Some things are best left between you and your shredder.

THE LAST WORD

"Old Ben would be very impressed."

Ben Franklin was right when he said "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Translation: it's better to avoid problems than to try to fix them later. Never thought I'd hear myself pairing a phrase from the 1700s with electronics of the new millennium, but backing up your valuable digital files is the only way to prevent lost data, not to mention severe headaches. External storage is the prevention and that's the cure.

Pretty sure it was also Ben Franklin who said "A penny saved is a penny earned." So check out our November issue. It has some great values on a nice assortment of data storage products—USB flash drives and credit-card sized drives for us road warriors, and portable or desktop hard drives that are small, yet mighty for small or home offices. Attention "IT guys"! Check out our high-capacity removable disk backup systems and LTO cartridges.

That's not all. We've got electrifying deals on printers, shredders and CD-R archival grade discs. Want more? How do instant savings, freebies and rebates sound? Yep, old Ben would be very impressed.
